Within the context of Warm Data, I notice a curious pattern. If one asks the same question multiple times over a period of weeks, the same basic diversionary response will recur, ofttimes nearly verbatim. But over extended periods of time, one will notice a few extra memes or jargon terms added into the mix. It's not too hard to find where these newly appearing terms of art came from. They are supplied by the other parties in attendance to the non-convergent marathon conversations that threaten to exceed YouTube's four-hour time limit. So what I observe is a slowly growing corpus of vocabulary phrases which can be mentioned but never explored or defined. It occurs to me that this practice is a curious way to acquire "pseudo-knowledge" in which one possess a growing number of terms of art, none of which are "grokked" in the sense of Heinlein. For example, the term of art, "Woo" is an example of such an ill-defined vocabulary term.

«Barry you did ask me if you could publish it I did say no.» Correct. And then quite some time later, you voluntarily disclosed where it resided so that everybody else could find it. This is like an unlisted video on YouTube — it can only be found if someone discloses the otherwise unlisted and unadvertised URL. Ask yourself this: Is an unlisted video on YT "published"? The URL is functionally equivalent to a password. No one knew that the item existed and no one knew the URL/Password to access it. But you conscientiously did the research to crack the URL/Password and then you voluntarily disclosed it to the public after you understood that whatever you posted thereafter was available for open publication. It is well known that a PM that is filled with verbal abuse is not protected by any claims of privacy or confidentiality. If someone wishes to assault me with verbal abuse, it doesn't mean that they can do so in "private" and then claim that it's a violation of privacy for me to disclose the demonstrably provable fact of having been verbally abused or assaulted or threatened, and at the same time supplying the raw evidence — the "video tape" — to back up the allegation.

Of Mice and Men is a novella written by John Steinbeck.[1][2] Published in 1937, it narrates the experiences of George Milton and Lennie Small, two displaced migrant ranch workers, who move from place to place in California in search of new job opportunities during the Great Depression in the United States. Steinbeck based the novella on his own experiences working alongside migrant farm workers as a teenager in the 1910s (before the arrival of the Okies that he would describe in The Grapes of Wrath). The title is taken from Robert Burns' poem "To a Mouse", which reads: "The best laid schemes o' mice an' men / Gang aft agley". (The best laid schemes of mice and men / Often go awry.) While it is a book taught in many schools,[3] Of Mice and Men has been a frequent target of censors for vulgarity, and what some consider offensive and racist language; consequently, it appears on the American Library Association's list of the Most Challenged Books of 21st Century.[4]

Indeed, valiant defenders of the right to post opinion even if it's misguided deception in the observers mind and heart space.

I think the subtle bullying is more of a personal thing than a knowledge thing. Passive aggressive and public shaming. Over controlling parents are a good example. And I don't need a parent child relationship with the GCC. I don't need to be told that everybody's trying to teach me about woo and geometric existence. It is ok to challenge bad ideas. It's the way you challenge. At the GCC it's an extra layer as more people are involved and you have to check consent of the group. That's why I made a smaller thread but apparently Barry didn't consent to answer my questions but he forcefully control the format of the discussion. Sorry people are getting fed up when it gets difficult

If Stacy's right and Barry's true intention is to help he sure has taken a funny approach by manipulating simple questions like define your claim. when he finally admitted he didn't have a claim I said then good we're done. But noooooo it was still his lecture Socrates time. This really isn't that hard to figure out and it comes down to being friendly and having good intentions. I also didn't appreciate Jazz's provoking which he admitted to but would have been much more appreciated in banter as opposed to the main show. But to me asking Barry for information is a trap set to waste your time and energy.

I'm done reading your blogs Barry for now Colin sent Today at 9:32 AM Too bad I was going to read the DSM-5 one but that's not going to happen now. Colin sent Today at 9:32 AM and I think I'm referring to your tactics Barry which may or may not relate to your character but I'm pretty sure there's correlation Colin sent Today at 9:32 AM Sorry I thought I was in unblocking.. Colin sent Today at 9:32 AM This s*** is a block not a a barn event

Sorry Sam. In my mind very polluted the science thread, so now it's an unblocking issue. Colin sent Today at 9:33 AM

If things work out Stacy can moderate some kind of a meeting of the minds because there's no way in hell I can get his attention to focus

Much better things to do... I'm still holding out that there is genuine concern inside Berry somewhere. That's for Stacy to explore.

Heres my 2 cents, if you can't say something nice about a member of the tribe then Keep it for PM1 0n 1 conversation

No worries Alex you were forgiven Colin sent Today at 9:40 AM We all have our moments I was most disappointed with the GCCs inepness Colin sent Today at 9:40 AM and Doug was going to try to write some kind of a manifesto and then he quit because he said it couldn't be done so now it's up to you and me to make a Venn diagram Colin sent Today at 9:40 AM Well Doug searches for people's inner shadows Colin sent Today at 9:40 AM Don't get me wrong I like Doug I just think there's a lot of b****** that needs to be cleared up as far as context and individual intentions and claims

Also for Joel he may have some kind of different take on reality because he literally says he sees things in geometry and I'm fascinated to know if it's like the boy with the amazing brain who saw numbers of shapes Colin sent Today at 9:45 AM Saw numbers as shapes Colin sent Today at 9:45 AM It's one of the most fascinating things I've ever seen and it is evidence that we have no idea what's going on in the minds Colin sent Today at 9:45 AM I'm not ignorant to that fact I'm trying to build Bridges to get us ahead not to solve the universe ... 42 Colin sent Today at 9:45 AM There's probably only 10 settings on the mixer board I need to approximate a conversation adapter I'm not trying to write medication Colin sent Today at 9:45 AM And Stacy's going to try at the old-fashioned way hopefully tomorrow between Berry and I Colin sent Today at 9:45 AM And if we want to respect Sam we should probably move over to banter even though this is about coexistence even if it's between spoiled smart people who don't know how to be understood Colin sent Today at 9:45 AM I don't even think Doug wants this noise

If someone could put that thread into a document that I could print, I would love to edit it. Just by removing things,(adding nothing), I think there would be a great conversation to continue. Sorry, but I am a pen and paper girl and it is unlikely I will make the effort unless I have it in print. Its hard and
